ALEXANDRIA, VA., THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 25, 1889.

NO. 175.

DRY GOODS.

Great Mid-Summer Clearing Sale,

COMMENCING MONDAY MORNING, JULY 8th.

This being the very heart of the summer season, and in consequence of the long wet spell of weather, we find ourselves overstocked on a great many summer goods. Instead of waiting until the season closes, as is the usual custom, we have concluded to begin at once to offer IMMENSE REDUCTIONS on all Summer Goods.

We name in part a few of the bargains:

One lot of Challis at 5c per yard.

All of our 8 and 10c goods reduced to 6c.

The all-pure Wool Goods that were 20c are now 15c.

Our Black Fish Drapery Net and large dot do. reduced from $1.50 to $1.25.

D. BENDHEIM, NO. 316 KING STREET.

SPECIAL SALE

White Goods and Embroideries!

In our search for bargains we came across an importing house overloaded with the above goods and we were enabled to purchase them at a very low figure. They will be placed on our counters to-morrow morning, and we invite you to call and see them; they are bargains indeed.

Also special bargains in SWISS FLOUNCINGS, which we are offering at very low figures.

LADIES' LINEN HANDKERCHIEFS—Fifty dozen. Ladies' Linen Handkerchiefs at 5, 8, 10 and 15 cents; worth double the price.

Another bargain we are able to offer consists of a fine assortment of TABLE LINENS, TOWELS and NAPKINS, and are prepared to sell them at astonishingly low prices.

PRETZFELDER & CO.,
NO. 530 KING STREET, ALEXANDRIA, VA.

Go to Chapman's This Week For Bargains.

The season is getting late and we have put the knife in deep. In some cases a reduction of one-half is made.

DRESS GOODS MUST GO

almost at your own price. A line of beautiful Grey Serge, half Wool, Double Width, former cheap price 25c; it will go at 12c. Many other medium-priced Dress Goods at correspondingly low figures. We have a beautiful line of White Goods, India Linen Plaids, Alibers, &c. It will pay you to take a look.

An Automatic Book Keeper.

The instrument is a most wonderful piece of mechanism and reflects great credit upon its inventor. The machine might be properly called an automatic bookkeeper, as it performs all the functions of such an individual even without error. It is manipulated by nine digit keys in combination with a series of actuating steps, so connected mechanically and controlled as to prevent every possible safeguard against errors in registering. The coloring of the notation stops corresponds to the ruling of the lines in books for accounts, enabling the manipulator to at once locate the amount correctly and expeditiously; and until the notation keys are first touched, designating the place in the series intended, the digit keys cannot be moved, and the machine not being operated, errors are thus avoided. Every amount registered is at once added on to the previous transaction of values. The last amount is indicated, numbered automatically and consecutively and printed out in duplicate, at the same time the check or voucher is also stamped with the corresponding face value and number of the record. Meanwhile, as soon as this is done, the indicator turns to zero, to be ready for the next transaction. And until such transaction is recorded, the machine will not move for the following one. The printing of the record is also in duplicate—forward, to enable one to check off the voucher; backwards, that time may be saved at the end of the day, by simply pressing or copying the record into any desired book.

The machine, in its various forms, is adapted to all kinds of businesses, from the bank to the smallest store, and is invaluable as a prevention against errors. Its use in banking will be in the receiving and paying tellers' departments; in listing checks for the clearing house, thus saving time and error; in striking balances; in registering and rendering valuable papers non-erasable; in railroad offices, at toll-gates, for ferries, and wherever tickets are used, the recorder will prove indispensable, inasmuch as it will print, issue, number, register, and audit its own sales of all tickets, preventing speculation, saving vast costs of printing, and lessening the labor of auditing.

This piece of ingenious mechanism is one of great importance to every one who has anything to do with accounts, and there is no doubt the demand for it will be almost universal.

DO MEN FEAR DEATH?—Who said that men fear death? Who concocted that fable for old wives? He should have stood that night with Philip in the midst of a host of 125,000 men in the full flush and vigor of life, calmly and deliberately making ready at dawn to receive death in its most horrid forms at one another's hands. It is in vain that religion invests the tomb with terror, and philosophy, shuddering, averts her face; the nations turn from these gloomy teachers to storm its portals in exultant haste, battering them wide enough for thousands to charge through abreast. The heroic instinct of humanity with its high contempt of death is wiser and truer, never let us doubt, than superstitious terrors or philosophic doubts. It testifies to a conviction, deeper than reason, that man is greater than his seeming self; to an underlying consciousness that his mortal life is but an accident of his real existence, the fashion of a day, to be lightly won and gallily doffed at duty's call. What a pity it truly is that the tonic air of battle fields—the air that Philip breathed that night before Antietam—cannot be gathered up and preserved as a precious elixir to reinvigorate the atmosphere in times of peace when men grow faint of heart and onward and quake at thought of death.—Edward Bellamy in Century

Expectation and Realization.

When the day is wet and cold,
This piece of ice you will behold—

But when the weather's warm and hot,
You'll find this much is what you've got—

The berries which the buyer sees
On top are very much like these—

But all the rest of them below
Are represented by this row—

These are the flashy circus bills
Which trusting boyhood grandly thrills—

!!!

But when the victim's once inside,
He finds the posters sadly lied—

Take
Simmons
Liver
Regulator
One Dose
WORTH
100 Dollars

DEAR S. L. R.—FRIENDS: I consider one dose of Simmons' Liver Regulator worth $100. I was constipated, had headache, could eat nothing with satisfaction or appetite; had the blues and felt altogether out of sorts. I resorted to blue mass, calomel, quinine and all remedies suggested, but only obtained temporary relief. One dose of S. L. R. did me more good than the $100 worth of doctors and doctoring.

T. C. MARRIEN.

I have been a teacher for twenty years, and during that time have had repeated attacks of headache, produced by torpid liver, and I have been entirely cured by the use of Simmons' Liver Regulator. I found it to be of so mild a character in its action as not to interfere, in the least, with my duties in the school room. To those similarly situated and subject to same, I cannot too highly recommend Simmons' Liver Regulator.
